Mr. W. J. Mourisatte has been accessed as a developing in some quarters in regard to the attitude of Germany toward South America, and the craze for the immediate necessity for the United States to rush by the Rev. H. H. Moore, of Coward. Avenue Christian Church.

Mr. W. J. Mourisatte has been accessed to the construction of a large number of battleships and cruisers. He stated that if a fair number of submarine torpedo boats were obtained by the government to guard the coast, we need not fear Gerniany or any other single power of Europe. Stronger still than Senator Hale's remarks are the statements of Aumiral Dowey and the report of the army board appointed by the Secretary of War to report on the Holland boats.

VIEWS OF DEWEY. Admiral Dewey, when he appeared be-fore the Committee on Naval Affairs last spring, said the moral effect of the submarine boats was so great that if there state of excitement and apprehension that they would have been of little use.

In November the War Department sent three artillery officers to the New England coast to examine the Holland type of torpedo boat and report upon it as a means of coast defense.

It is said that if Venezuela owned three good torpedo boats she could keep the ships of England, Germany and Italy from entering her harbors as easily if she had as many battleships on hand if orders are placed for a number of these boats the shipyards at Richmond will get their share. The position of Richmond is especially favorable for such work in time of war, on account of its distance from the coast.

Representative Roberts, of Massachusetts, has introduced a bill for the construction of twenty Holland boats, and it is probable that a bill of the same sort will be introduced in the Senate also. The majority of the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs is heartily in favor of on Naval Affairs is heartily in favor of

There is always an opportunity to entertain friends end to have a good time generally on the big ships, which is utterly impossible on a submarine boat.

Another feature which is brought out by those Senators and Congressmen who favor the increase of the number of torpede boats is the quickness and cheapters with which they can be constructed. If we should have war, or if war should menace us, it is said that fifty submarine teats could be delivered to the United States within a year, at a cost of $175,000 each. PENSIONS GRANTED.

(Special Dispatch to The Times.)

BALTIMORE, MD., Dec. 23.—Mr. George

George Fawcett Company, with headquarters at Chase's Theatre, in this cry, announces, through his representative
here, that he will soon invade New York with one of his companies. This will be a specially selected company, headed by Miss Mary Snaw, which will produce the Fawcett is just completing arrangements for the appearance of Miss Shaw, and while it is known the appearance will be on Broadway, the name of the house has not been given.

The purpose will be to appeal directly to the lovers of this class of intellectual play, and this may best be done at special matinees. Mr. Fawcett has undertaken this New York venture in the interests of the drama, believing that a t of this type is acceptable to those students of the drama who have in mind an ultimate change in the general characteristics of the drama in favor of a more serious treatment of serious questions.

Miss Shaw appeared in "Ghosts" in this city and the critics, without exception, went into raptures over the performance, compelling three other presentations of the play. Then Miss Shaw appeared in Washington in the play, where the critics were fullsome in their praise of her intellectuality in the part, her truth to detail, her repression. The date of the New York performance of "Ghosts" with Miss Shaw will probably be announced in a few days.

Fairly good crowds continue to visit no change made in the programme. Special arrangements will be made for the holidays, and beginning with Christmas holidays, and beginning with Christmas Day until January 3d the show will be open from 10 A. M. until 10:30 P. M., with a performance at short intervals. This is done to give the out-of-town visitors an opportunity to see what soes on. It is probable that the animals will be given something out of their usual line in the way of dinner on Christmas Day, as this would only be in accord with the up-to-date ideas of the management.
